Campus Worship Will Start Tomorrow; Chaplain To Lead Service In Knights Gym

By Linda Mugridge

Campus worship will become a Wartburg reality tomorrow.

First in a program of services that will be continued next fall, tomorrow's worship will begin at 9:30 a.m. in Knights Gymnasium. Another service will be held at the same time, same place, next Sunday.

The Rev. Herman Diers, new college chaplain, will deliver the sermon at both services. Liturgists for tomorrow are Dr. C. H. Becker, college president, and the Rev. Waldemar Gies, Christianity Department.

Students Serve

Senior Keith Lentz and freshman Larry Minard will serve as vocal soloist and organist, respectively. Other student work is being done by senior John Pavelka, who is in charge of physical setting; senior Norm Braatz, offertory; and junior Meredith Stuhmer, programs. The "W" Club will handle ushering.

Sunday breakfast will be served from 7:30 to 8:30 a.m. in the cafeteria, according to Student Body Pres. Jim Schwarz.

Plans are being completed for regular campus worship for the 1959-60 school year, according to Dr. Becker. Chaplain Diers will supervise the functioning of the college church, which will be affiliated with St. Paul's Lutheran Church of Waverly.

Becker Prays

"My prayer is that these services will deepen the spiritual interests and life of the total college entity," said Dr. Becker.

At the present time, the subcommittee on campus worship of the faculty-student Religious Activities Committee is laying the groundwork for the new church's constitution. The document will be presented to the Student Body for approval next fall, according to Dr. Becker.

Tomorrow's service culminates discussion that began three years ago. During the 1956-57 school year, two subcommittees of the Religious Activities Committee hewed out the framework for campus worship.

Opinions Canvassed

A poll concerning the worship programs of 17 Lutheran schools was taken. After a convocation devoted to the question of campus worship, students voted three to one to study the possibility of a campus church with facilities at hand.

Present subcommittee on campus worship, headed by Rev. Gies, was named last fall. On March 23 the Student Senate recommended to the committee that services be held on campus this spring. The two forthcoming services were then scheduled.

Student Body Pres. Jim Schwarz urges all students on campus to take advantage of campus worship by attending tomorrow's service.

Pastor Diers Assumes Numerous Tasks

By Grace Jahn

Pastor Herman Diers, newest addition to the Wartburg Family, is taking over the reins held by the Rev. Edwin Schick as Wartburg College Chaplain.

Arriving April 30 with his family, Pastor Diers took over his duties May 1. These duties include committee meetings, counseling and guidance of the worship program on campus. He will begin to teach a few classes next fall.

Move Is Mild

"Things went along too well to be interesting," said Pastor Diers, commenting on his "moving in" experiences.

He also expressed his gratitude to the Wartburg students who helped him and his family get settled.

The family consists of Mrs. Diers and their three sons — Jimmy, 6; Gary, 5; and Brenton, 2.

College Changing

"Wartburg has changed four times in every way since I've last been here," commented the chaplain, who is a '49 graduate of Wartburg College and a '52 graduate of Wartburg Seminary, Dubuque.

While he was at Wartburg, Pastor Diers edited the Trumpet in his junior year.

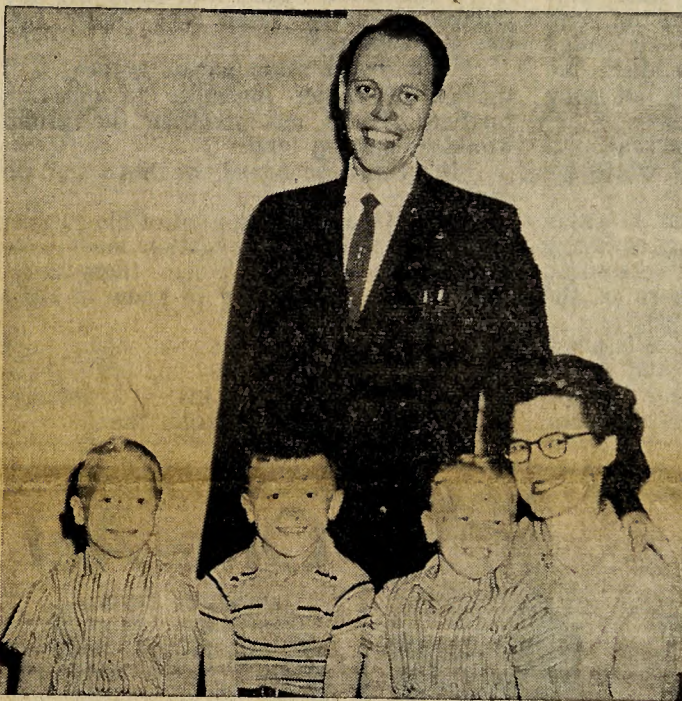

"I always enjoyed my work on the newspaper, and it was a touch of home to see it again," he explained.

Hours Listed

Pastor Diers in his office as chaplain will be available for counseling Monday through Friday from 11 a.m. to 12 noon on third floor, Old Main.

On the subject of campus worship, he said that he is happy that arrangements could be made to hold the services in Knights Gym until the Chapel-Auditorium is completed.

"I am very grateful for the warm welcome extended to me by everyone," concluded the new Wartburg College Chaplain.

Press To Banquet Sunday

"Ten Years Toward Higher Journalism" will be the theme of the annual Press Banquet sponsored by Alpha Phi Gamma, to be held at Carver's Restaurant tomorrow at 6:15 p.m.

The Rev. Herman Diers, college chaplain, will speak on the subject, "Are People Worth While?" Diers was editor of the Trumpet during the 1946-47 school year.

Publications workers will also receive awards during the program. Letters are given for the first year, pins for the second and special awards for the third and fourth.

Other awards include the "Greatest Loss to Journalism Department" and the "Best Story Award." The latter prize is given to the Trumpet staffer who has written the greatest number of superior stories during the year. Both awards are given by the adviser, Mrs. Margaret Garland.

Library Stacks To Move Next Week; Housing Units, Organizations To Aid

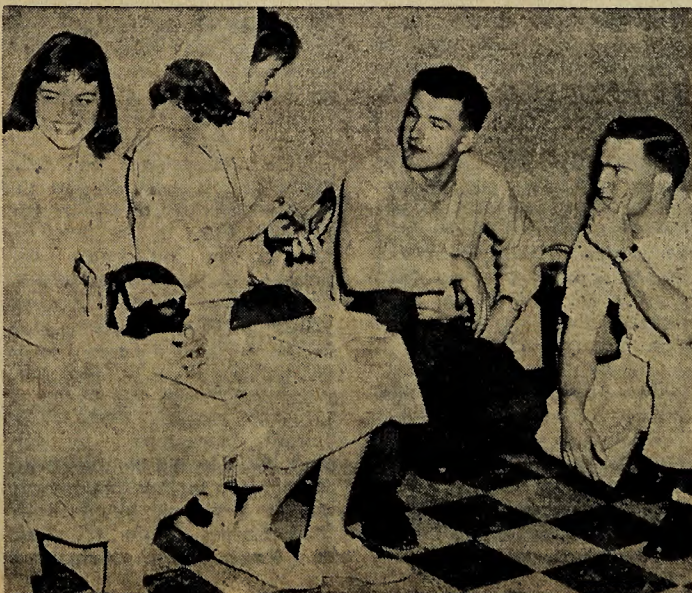

Moving day for the Wartburg Library to the Homuth Memorial Library will take place sometime next week.

The progress of the workmen and the weather will be the deciding factors in determining the exact date, according to college business manager Herb Engelbrecht.

At present the workmen are busy installing the stacks and assembling the furniture. The move cannot be considered until these are completed, according to Engelbrecht. When the exodus of books is finally undertaken, the co-operation of everyone in the Student Body will be needed. All movers are urged to wear working attire.

Visitors

find Wartburg to their liking this week. Below, freshman Dennis Wendt and sophomore "Ed" Barrow converse with two high school girls on Wednesday. Friday, parents registered for a visit. Sophomore Donald Earl Claggett assists.

Aslakson, Rebelein Get Study Grants

Two Wartburg seniors, Barbara Aslakson and Paul Rebelein, have received awards for further education, according to Dean of Faculty John O. Chelle-vold.

Miss Aslakson, Marshfield, Wis., was awarded a fellowship in American studies at the University of Wyoming at Laramie. The fellowship is effective for 1959-60 school year.

Rebelein, from Elroy, Wis., received an assistantship in mathematics at the University of Minnesota, Minneapolis. The award is a three-fourths teaching assistantship.

It Was A Good Group!

I met a band of angels. At first, I thought this was rather strange even though it was a visiting day. Then there was the fact that one doesn't usually see angelic creatures in this part of the country — in any part of the country, for that matter.

So much greeting going on during this particular day, it seemed the proper thing to do to assail these visitors with the proper greetings. Not knowing at all how one hails an angel, I settled for a mere "hello." This seemed to startle them for a minute, if angels can be startled, and I thought, perhaps the phonetics of the word was not too appropriate for the occasion.

"It is rather windy today," the lead angel replied. "Is it because of all this greeting going on around here?"

I hastily replied that the atmospheric disturbance had nothing to do with the proceedings around us, and he seemed satisfied. I think he considered my answer rather formal, since he proceeded to remark about the day, just as though I hadn't spoken.

"We have seen some rather good things today . . . is there always this much sincerity among these people?"

I replied that I thought there was. This set him to thinking. The rest of the band just sort of flapped their wings and smiled at one another. I was a little disturbed by the whole episode by this time, not being used to conversing with angels.

"Everything is so clean," he said. "It all seems so unlike the sort of world we had expected to find."

I had to confess to him that it was a rather special day, there being so many visitors from the outside, but I reassured him that the general atmosphere of the campus was not too unlike the day's.

He seemed to get excited, if it is possible for angels to get excited, and raised two great arms for gesturing. "We had expected to find wars and rumors of wars, people hiding inside of dwellings, much unrest and trouble . . ."

His speech was interrupted, momentarily, by the popping of a firecracker somewhere across the lawn. I had never seen an angel jump into the air, having never seen an angel, so when they had settled on terra firma again, I assured them that this temporary outburst was only a form of celebration — for so many visitors.

After a few moments of silence, truly a profound silence, the leader of the band motioned to the others that it was time to go.

"It seems that we cannot find much wrong with this area of earth. Perhaps we are searching in the wrong place. We had rather expected to find great troubles and thought we might be of some help.

"I suppose that there are some troubles in the world. There have certainly been some tremors of unrest emitted from the earth of late. Only the wind seems to be disturbing this place."

I assured him that it would be calm on the next day, and this seemed to satisfy him, except for those clear blue eyes with which he seemed to be able to penetrate my deepest thoughts.

"I am called Peace, and these are my followers, Charity, Good Will, Truth, Justice and Liberty."

I had heard those names before, so I thought it rather improper to question further. I did ask whether the group would be staying long.

"If we can be heard, we hope so," he replied.

While I was rubbing a bit of blown dust out of my eye, the delegation must have slipped off, as I haven't seen them since. None of them professed to know of their exact destination.

It all seems rather unreal now, more like a dream of imagination, but I have never seen blue eyes like his. It is not easy to describe them or to forget them.

Knight Life

By Don Claggett

Well, gang, as the old saying goes, "We've had the course." The seniors and Outfly have come and gone which means that our "free from school days" are a thing of the past. Nothing to look forward to now except final exams and summer vacation. Reminisce, frosh, the first one is almost over . . . one down, three to go.

In this column I have attempted, in the past year, to bring a smile across the faces of the readers; however, if you please, I would like to make mention of a not so humorous topic.

In several issues of the Trumpet, in bull sessions and in convocations, the subject of stealing has been discussed. Every time I hear of something being stolen (which is getting to be every day), I am filled with sympathy, sympathy, not for the victim, but for the thief.

It would be exceedingly prudent for the individual or individuals engaged in this illegitimate profession to cease such activities before being found out. Found out, not by administrators, but by his peers. I can think of no fate worse than this, my friends. There is a law against this, you know — see Exodus 20:15.

One nice thing about Senior Day is that the fish pond is always given a face lifting. This spring, a few bright, thoughtful frosh added their contributions to the pond's beautification. Actually, gold fish would have been better, fellows, but we will settle for half a dozen mudsuckers.

So you say it's term paper time, and you just can't get started. Try this typical lead sentence written in typical term paper style: It is arduous to differentiate between the exuberant phenomena of life and the physical statutes governing them, by virtue of the fact that the various complex and acute properties of each, without extensive and/or ardent study, cannot be segregated from those running parallel and those coinciding with each other. Hey, what!

Food for thought: If all were as wise as they think, this would, indeed, be a world of geniuses.

TRUMPET RECOMMENDS

One-Act Plays Are Winners

By Ed Schaley

Bits of satire, folk justice and the touch of light comedy are evidenced in the three one-act play contest winners now appearing on the stage of the campus Little Theater.

Opening Wednesday with a Senior Day performance and playing again last night, the three works will receive their final treatment tonight at 8.

The three winning playwrights, all Iowa college students, will be present to meet the audience and receive their awards from Speech Department Head Robert Smith and drama coach Vernon Lestrud.

They are Rik Pierce, Iowa Wesleyan College, Mt. Pleasant, third prize; Richard Stockton, second prize; and Norman Handelsman, the winning award of 15 dollars. Both Stockton and Handelsman are attending the University of Iowa, Iowa City.

"George Spelvin," the Pierce effort, focuses on a brief commencement episode where a few state university faculty members are confronted with the scandal of the identity of George Spelvin, an honor student whom they all assume to know but cannot recollect.

Senior Arlo Bice, as Pres. Harold Oglethorp, appears convincing in an attempt to produce mannerisms denoting a leader who employs family fanfare in a public position. Oglethorp is obviously living a lie, but Bice has few lines to develop this revealing factor of his personality.

Don Ehlers, freshman, and senior Harley Joens, in his first appearance in the Theater this year, as Dean "Sonny" Petoot and Dr. Copperthwaite have even less time to appear as anything more than ill-fitted yes-men in the presence of the dean-omineering Oglethorp.

The scene gains a little more credulity with the appearance of student Tom Cuning, played by sophomore energetic Bob Boettcher. Cuning's cunning is nipped, but in bloom, when a pointed question by Oglethorp causes him to 'fess up.'

Writer Pierce commands some attention with his use of realistic situation turned comic. The character names are there, but the dialogue, by the nature of its nakedness, seems to demand too much from the actors as it reads.

"The Casket Maker," by Richard Stockton, calls for a drab setting with convincing folk dialogue limited to two real characters. Freshmen newcomers Allan Bell as Kenny and Lonnie Hoffman as Angela do a considerable amount of convincing to retain the necessary mixture of tragic justice and bitter humor desired by the author.

The scene is a casket-maker's shop. The characters are folk in nature of personality. The geographic setting is not emphasized. The economy of characters tends to make the ensuing conflict stronger.

Miss Hoffman and Bell fight hard, and successfully, to retain the mixture of humor and tragedy that is so much a part of real life drama. The motive of the drama is revenge, sought for by Angela, whose husband has died as a result of Kenny's banal "sense of humor." But it is "she" who could laugh last but cannot.

In the winner's circle, "The Queen's Messenger," by Norman Handelsman completes the run of plays by creating comedy out of a two-bit kingdom (in Madagascar) in the year 1845 or thereabouts, a haughty queen (short on cash, long on pride) and her subjected subjects.

Toquiquomaladolano (hereafter referred to as Toqui), secretary to the queen, is ably portrayed by Ehlers as his second role for the evening. Toqui is forced to be court handy man due to lack of sufficient funds in the royal treasury.

Three others duplicating roles in the final play are Boettcher as the subdued Messenger; Joens as the Minister of War, Amad; and Bice as Dama, Minister of Finance.

Her royal majesty, the Queen, is characterized by senior Joan Pape, in her final appearance on the Little Theater stage.

Some fine lines are evidenced throughout the performance, with the situation comedy coming into play much of the time. The actual humor is slight until an upstart of a messenger arrives in the person of Kolinaro, portrayed by sophomore Bob Rosenberg.

Bice and Joens depict the parts of bumbling courtiers through most of their lines, but the entire episode hangs on the young shoulders of Rosenberg and Ehlers, who are able to give the play the light credulity it deserves.

Events come to a head quickly as Kolinaro is able to delay his last meal long enough to strike up a special friendship with the queen. Miss Pape responds with the necessary mixed emotions of first love, but the audience is only aware that the play has ended when the curtain closes.

Director Vernon Lestrud and a supporting cast of student stage crews are doing a creditable job behind the scenes. The technical aspects of the production substantiate this feeling.

Ball Play In Norseland Today

By Don Bathgate

Oppiemen are at Decorah this afternoon where they tangle with the Luther College Norsemen in an effort to raise their conference record to 8-3.

Coach Earnest Oppermann is expecting to start either Jim Borcharding or Marv Ott in the game that is scheduled to begin at 2:30 p.m.

Loras Tallies 15

Loras College of Dubuque walked all over the Oppiemen yesterday by a 15-2 score in a non-conference game.

Poor fielding and some weak pitching made the Knights look like anything but the Iowa Conference Champs that they hope to be.

Arlyn Saathoff, who started the game for the Knights, was relieved in the fifth inning by Dave Siefkes with nobody out.

Siefkes proceeded to walk the first man and then was shelled by the Loras nine before Wayne Slack finally put out the fire. Loras managed to gather 9 runs on just 7 hits in this hectic inning.

Empty Bull Pen

After one calm inning, Slack too ran into trouble and was relieved by Carl Bartenhagen, who also pitched the eighth inning. Coach Oppermann then brought in Tom Christensen to put them down in the ninth.

Wartburg managed to pick up their only two runs in the first and fifth inning, while Loras scored at will.

Pair Gobbles 4 of 5

Loras' Roth and Hogan led the hitting for the day as they each managed to collect 4 hits and 2 RBI's in 5 times at the plate. Ott led Wartburg's hitting with a 3 for 4 day.

Tuesday the Knights will travel to Storm Lake for a double header with Buena Vista. The schedule originally called for a night game but was moved up into the day to accommodate the game that was to have been played here on Senior Day.

Knights Hold Tigers

Last Saturday the Knights downed Iowa Wesleyan in a double header here at Waverly.

Jim Borcharding gave the Oppiemen a splendid pitching performance as he went 13 innings to win the first game 2-1. Marv Ott brought home the night cap by a 4-2 score.

Dar Oehlerich homered in the second inning of the first game for the Knights.

Campbell's Men Host Luther Clan On Schield Track At 1:30 Today; Skay Will Scoot For Dash Honors

By Dave Shetter

Wartburg's track squad will host Luther College of Decorah here this afternoon in a dual meet at Schield Stadium.

The Luther team captured second place in the Viking Olympics at Rock Island, Ill., last Saturday while Wartburg had to settle for third. Luther is also defending conference champion.

Has Spikes, Will Sprint

Coach Bob Campbell has high hopes that sprintman Eddie Skay will set new records in both the 100 and 220 yd. dashes in this annual school rivalry. Skay has already recorded times that are better than the current records for a Wartburg-Luther dual meet.

Bill Streng also has possibilities of setting a new mark in the 440 yard dash.

Take Short Count With Winona

Wartburg's cindermen ran against Winona State Teachers College of Winona, Minn., here in an outdoor event on Wednesday, before a crowd of both Wartburgers and visiting seniors.

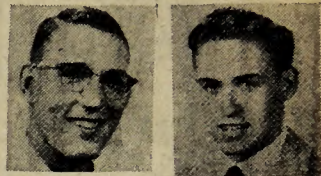

On this dreary Wednesday the Knights suffered a defeat of 68-63. Wartburg took two wins when Eddie Skay took a first in both the 100 and 220 yard events and John Niemeyer firsts in both the 120 high hurdles and 220 low hurdles.

Wallin Shatters Mark

Charles Wallin broke the school discus record when he hurled it 136' 10" compared to 131' 0" made by Fritz Steinhauer in 1950.

Andy Polis made 6' in the high jump with no competitors. Bill Streng batted the breeze to take the first in the 440 run.
